

Groundwater in Mining and Resources Panel

Mr James Tomlin

DIRECTOR / AUSTRALASIAN GROUNDWATER AND ENVIRONMENTAL CONSULTANTS PTY LTD

James Tomlin is a principal consultant and director of Australasian Groundwater and Environmental Consultants (AGE), a consultancy that has prepared numerous groundwater assessments for Australian and international resource projects. James and has been a manager with the company for 20 years and has witnessed an evolving groundwater assessment processes and changing expectations from communities and governments. He is experienced in navigating the challenges of groundwater assessments for resource projects including field characterisation, modelling, impact assessment and legislation, and is guided by a drive to provide useful information for clients, communities and decision makers.